The Hon Mr. Wilders, on taking the chair addressed.

Hon. Mr. Marcham, of Verment, opposed the amendment.

Mr. Marcham, of Verment, opposed the amendment.

Mr. Marcham, of Verment, opposed the amendment.

Mr. Marcham, good-naturedly remarked that it was pretty well understood that he did not generally stick to what he carted with, but he should insist on his amendment. He nade some remark about so large a committee of members of Congress, when Mr. Marcham remarked that he hoped that Congressmen would not be put on these committees generally.

Hen Mr. Tarlon, of Ohio, hoped that the committee would be appended. He was obliged to reirre to attend to his duty in Congress, where it was well known that a bill was pending of more importance than the election of President of the United States.

Hen John P. Half said that if we were to continue to be troubled with so much wordyion from members of congress he was glad that some bill was pending which would call them away.

Judge Douglas, of Illinois, was in favor of the committee of one from each State.

Mr. James McGowan, of Mount Airy, Pennsylvania, thought it inexpedient to establish a National Agricultural Society.

Mr. Janie and Mr. Land Stanger, of Pennsylvania, it was tural Society. On notice of William Stanger, of Pennsylvania, it was veter that it is expecient to establish such a seciety.
